Process

The fund's approach is adaptable and flexible. Prices are kept regularly under review and sales made to obtain better value elsewhere or adjust the portfolio to changing circumstances. The constant aim is to look for and buy securities that offer value and make disposals where the bond price has become too high. Bond selection is primarily bottom-up but with an awareness that different sectors will often provide better value at different times. Currency selection is more thematic. There is a general belief in adding to winners rather than losers.
